The State vs. Frank Broughton—murder. R. W. Seymour and G. H. Sass, Esqs., for the defence. The facts of the case, as elicited by the evidence of numerous witnesses on either side and by the lows: That there was an old feud between Harley, the deceased, and Broughton, the prisoner. This had been smothered, and the parties met on apparently friendly terms. Some time in June las an invitation to a shooting match was given Harley, and Broughton walked with him to the spot-a store near Monck's Corner. After several shots had been made, a controversy arose between Harley and Broughton, the former being very abusive and threatening to kill Broughton. The latter said that he was a boy and unable to cope with him, and the quarrel was stopped by some of the party. It was subsequently renew ed by Harley, and Broughton thinking that he intended putting his threat in execution, fired the fatal shot. Harley was represented to have been a violent man, while Broughton was quite young. The latter was represented by counsel was handled the case, with peculiar tact and ability. Judge Carpenter charged the jury at some length, showing the difference between murder and manslaughter. The jury were absent but a short time, and returned with a verdict of not guilty.

THE WORKINGMEN'S MEETING, of which we spoke in our last issue, took place last evening in the lower room of Hibernian Hall, and was a very respectable assemblage. The seats were all filled and many had to stand, the number present being, at a rough calculation, between three and four hundred. Mr. J. M. Rabb presided and Mr. J. E. Ferris acted as secretary. The carlier portion of the meeting was taken up with a desul-tory discussion upon the position of the city newspapers with regard to the workingmen's movement and upon the expediency of renewing an invitation which had been extended to the editors to address the meeting. The committee who had been charged with the matter had given the invitation in writing and made a verbal report of the manner in which it had been received by the papers to whom it had been sent. The reply of the proprietors of THE NEWS, which was read, was as follows:

OFFICE OF THE CHARLESTON NEWS, }
CHARLESTON, S. C., November 12, 1860. }
Dear Sir—We have the honer to acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to a meeting of the workingmen, to be held this evening, and return our thanks for the same. THE NEWS will certainly be represented at the meeting. Its proprietors, however, must respectfully decline to "address the assemblage." The workingmen will have our full sympathy and support in any movement, the aim of which shall seem to us just and reasonable; but, in our view, any prominence sought or accepted in a workingmen's meeting by persons who are not workingmen, would be an intrusion and an impertinence.

nd an impertinence.
The workingmen of Charleston, we know, have undient intelligence to speak and act for them, elves without the interference of outsiders.

We have the honor to be,
We have the honor to be,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
Riordan, Dawson &
Mr. Wm. S. Ryan, Chairman Brecutive Co
tee of the Workingmen. The first speaker was Mr. W. P. Russell, who, i response to loud and repeated calls, mounted the stage. He expressed his gratitude for the ananimity of the compilment which had been raid him, and which he considered as great at honor as if the men before him were the magnates of the land. Few were aware of the opposition that had to be encountered by those who took the part of the workingmen. He himself was a contractor, a master mechanic, and never expected again to be, like the handreds he saw before him, a journeyman, yet he was with the workingmen, heart and soul, in their stand against the employers. Times had changed since 1866, when the workingmen had achieved the drst triumph in the election of the Hon. W. S. Henerey to represent them in the State Senate. At that time he wrote a letter, (which the papers had refused to publish, though he offered to pay $100 for it) in which he predicted the coming power of the workingmen. It was high time that they should take a stand against working early and late for a pittance. There was no good reason why they should not have a proper remuneration. He predicted that the move ment, the inception of which they saw there to night, would be fruitful in beneficial results. Remarks were also made by Messrs. McIndoo and J. F. Britton, and also by several persons who were not workingmen. The burden of the speeches, generally, was an exhortation to those resent to stand together in the maintenance of their rights, and to organize at ouce for mutual

The Workingmen and Trades Unions.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS. The meeting last evening, at which there was an attendance of some three hundred or four hundred workingmen, evidenc that a chord has been struck, the responsive feeling was echoed by all who had assembled with honest intention. The remarks of the workingmen were conveyed with much impressiveness, and it is to be regretted that the speakers who followed did not embrace the same line of argument. That there is <sup>6</sup>a desire for the establishment of a permanent organization there is no question; but if, as was the case last evening, a rehash of politics is to be presented, the good almed at will become a dead letter. A necessity does exist for a thorough organization of the workingmen of this community, and much good will be accomplished. Now, it is suggested that the various branches of tradesmen in this city call separate meetings and discuss the plan; and when a thoroughness of action has been a plished, let a general meeting be held, and such speakers selected as know the wants to be met Let us avoid all distractions by the introduction of political speakers—demagogues who are catering for their own advancement, and would use the workingman for the benefit of self. It is not to be supposed that all the officers of the meetin last night were cognizant of the character of those who had been invited to address the assemblage; but ites a source of mortification that Radical effrontery refused to hide its head for one MANY WORKINGMEN.

THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN COMPANY .-In the course of less than twenty years this com-pany have grown from a very small beginning to be the most celebrated and extensive makers of instruments of the Organ and Melodeon kind in the world, producing and finding demand for several times as many instruments makers. Four large elephant tusks must be cut up every week to supply them with ivery for keys; so they must be said to consume two large elephants per week. Their Organs rank highest, not only in this country, but also in Europe, where the demand for them is rapidly increasing. This remarkable success is undoubtedly owing greatly to their superior skill in this specialty, and to the very important improvements they have effected in this class of instruments; but it is the result, almost in equal measure, perhaps, of adherence to, and energetic pursuit of certain principles. Inflexible rules with th do the very best work only, availing themselve of every improvement, and being careful to suf fer no inferior instrument to leave their factory; and (2) to sell always at smallest remunerative Any one buying an organ made by this company has the satisfaction of knowing that he bas on of the best instruments of the class which can be made, and this at the lowest price at which such
